Q.4 Write a paraphrase of the following passage: (14)

Worldly success measured by the accumulation of money is no doubt a very dazzling thing, and all men are more or less admires of worldly success. But though men of persevering, sharp, dexterous and unscrupulous habits, ever on the watch to push opportunities, may and do, 'get on' in the world, yet it is quite possible that they may not possess the slightest elevation of character nor a particle of greatness. He who recognises no higher logic than that of the shilling may become a very rich man yet remain all the while an exceedingly poor creature. For riches are no proof whatever of moral worth and their glitter often serves only to draw attention to the worthlessness of their, measurable by his money. If he has a fat purse and a lean heart, a broad estate and a narrow understanding, what will his 'means' do for him- what will his 'worth' gain him? Let a man be what he will, it is the mind and heart that make a man poor or rich, miserable or happy for these are always stronger than fortune.

Q.5(A) Edit the following passage by correcting the errors. (07)

The foremost need is to give girls good education so that, besides learning to read and write, they also has the opportunity to move out from the security of the four walls of the home life and acquire some self-confidence. If women is well educated, they will learn not only their writes which now everybody else knows, but also their obligetions to the home, to the society and to the nation. They will also learnt the significance of the role they can play in rearing and educating their children. It should be recognised that in Indian families, the ladies have a powerful role in running household, in teaching manners to the childrenand in their dealings with friends and relatives on both sides. Unless, they are very well eduketed, they cannot play this role well.
